

Latest Intel on Walmart's Sponsored Search Offerings

By Claire McBride // June 10, 2024 // Benchmarks, Research

June 10, 2024

3 minute read

We shared benchmarking earlier this year suggesting paid search (and specifically, Sponsored Products) accounts for the majority of brands' retail media spend.

For instance, the growth in Amazon's advertising business is driven primarily by Sponsored Products, despite it being the most mature ad type. Newer developments like Streaming TV are newsworthy and great test-and-learn opportunities, but still "very early" in advertising adoption according to Amazon's management team.

The same dynamic holds true for Walmart Connect (WMC).

At this point, its in-store retail media offerings are more interesting than impactful, and our research suggests brands' spend is concentrated most heavily on paid search.

But if in-store options won't move the needle and paid search is table stakes, how do brands get ahead without simply dishing out even more money to the search engine results page (SERP)?

The following intel from eCommerce leaders via our benchmarking, research interviews, and share groups provides a granular view on the opportunities to generate great returns and grow sales and share with your sponsored search spend.

THIS IS A GATED ARTICLE JUST FOR MEMBERS

Join the Stratably community

Access independent research on the omnichannel market

Enterprise membership unlocks:

Bite-sized market updates

Deep dive analyses

Industry benchmarks

Retailer forecasts

Invites to live events

And More!

Enterprise Membership unlocks our full insights that you and your team can use to drive alignment across your organization, improve your forecasting, and invest in the right capabilities.

Simply put, it makes your organization much more informed, providing a competitive edge over your rivals.

Join Today

Already have an account? Login Now